IMPORTANT: Prior to your first FEI ride your FEI Endurance Novice Qualifications for both horse & rider need to be entered into the FEI Database by EA. (These can be submitted either at the time of applying for a passport or submitted at the same time that your entry to the FEI Ride is submitted. The Novice Qualifiers will be updated in the FEI database when the entries are inputted approx. 1 week prior to the competition date).

Guide & Form can be found here:

<https://www.equestrian.org.au/news/fei-endurance-novice-qualifications>

Note: when adding your 2 x 40km rides to the form jump into AREASPACE & locate the ride results. Even though in Australia a 40km ride we do not have placings, however in order for EA to enter it into the FEI database you need to review your time that you completed the ride in work out what position you were in when you crossed the line & use that for your Rank/Result on the form. i.e. 5th place. Be selective with the rides you use as your novice qualifications to fit the criteria required.

FEI Checklist <https://www.equestrian.org.au/content/fei-checklist-0>

You will also need to download the FEI HorseApp (Horse Welfare) & enter the relevant information required prior to & during any event you participate at i.e. Self-Certification Form prior to arrival at the FEI event, Horse temperature twice daily logs which are required 3 days prior, during & until an event has concluded, Horse Check-In.

(Please note: you are able to submit these temperatures up to 3 days in the past as long as it's before the Examination on Arrival. If it's over 3 days you will not be able to submit the temperatures and will receive a sanction that is not appealable.)
